➤ AGRICULTURE, NATURE PROTECTION AND TERRITORIAL PROMOTION

General: EUROMED EVE TUNISIA is located in the beautiful region of CAPBON north Tunisia. Our territory is rich with quality soil that is a ground for productive cultivation for many agricultural products as grapes, oranges, peppers, gardening products, flowers as well cactus flowers. Its fertile land, regular rainfall, management of arable land and generous water resources make Cap Bon a first-rate agricultural region: cultivation, livestock and fishing are practiced there in a topographic, seasonal and ancestral diversity. The cultures in cap-bon are so diversified that we can affirm

But agriculture under urban pressure is only seen from the angle of the market product. This activity, which has long fueled Tunisian cities, especially those on the coast, today risks losing even its primary function. Since the 1960s, the State has taken the decision to encourage new industrial projects, particularly tourism and its related activities. Sustained urban growth and poorly controlled seaside tourism in time and space have in turn generated an imbalance between the urban and the rural. Among the regions most affected by this phenomenon are the delegations of Nabeul and Hammamet.

EUROMED EVE TUNISIA is working on projects that shall point out:

- Promotion of agriculture among youth as one opportunity for entrepreneurship and innovation on the local level (green entrepreneurship);
- Supporting the local agriculture weld through engagement and promotion of international level via participating in international projects;
- Promotion of cross sectors as agri - tourism and good practices through organizing international training courses for capacity building on the local and international level;

- KA2 Project MCTAR- Media & Critical Thinking Against Radicalisation Ref: 602623-EPP-1-2018-1-TN-EPPKA2-CBY-SMED

"Media and Critical Thinking Against Radicalisation" (MCTAR) is a youth project coordinated by Euro-Med Eve (Tunisia) in partnership with EN.O Greece, URI Mena (Jordan) and Freeminds in Action (Italy). It aims to develop tools and resources to prevent radicalisation and fight hate speech in media. MCTAR is thought to be a project to develop further methodologies and approaches in youth work as a way to prevent and identify radicalisation processes amongst youngsters. On the other hand, we aim to foster youth understanding on current topics and foster their critical thinking as a way to become mindful citizens who are able to discern hate speech in and negative messages in media and online. The project is divided in two main phases. The first one is devoted to provide youth workers with tools and resources in order to identify risk behaviours and patterns in youngsters that could lead to radicalisation. The second phase objective is to engage youth into critical thinking and debate over different topics spinning around the concept of intercultural dialogue and tolerance. On the other hand, youth will get the opportunity to get an insight into creative processes such as photography and videomaking as an alternative way to express themselves and oppose to hate speech messages. By sharing these experiences with youth from different countries and cultural background, youngsters will get the chance to share diverse perspectives and learn from each other. In addition, they will engage into the production of several short films that will be presented at a local festival in Nabeul. Throughout the project several intellectual outputs are to be produced, highlighting, an antiradicalisation toolkit, a field research report on the four communities, OER's related to the project content and training sessions, photographs and videos made during the youth exchanges and several short films co-produced by the youngsters. All the learning outcomes will be available through our website under creative commons license for free use. The main goals to be achieved can be divided in three points: 1. Raising awareness about radicalisation and hate speech in media. 2. Developing tailored methods for youth workers to address prevention on radicalisation and provide them with tools and resources adapted to each specific context. 3. Foster critical thinking amongst youngsters while providing them with skills and creative tools as a way to develop counter narratives. With MCTAR we aim to provide tools for change, a different approach to youth work, focused on the prevention and identification of youth radicalisation processes by promoting the intercultural dialogue and the creation of alternative messages through media tools. MCTAR is a project to overcome mental walls, and build up new narratives in contraposition to hate speech.

- KA2 Project Citizen Journalism Academy for Youth Ref: : ERASMUS-YOUTH-2021-CB Project 101052000 — JOUR-YOU

"The 21st century demands raising skills and competences to respond to fast technological development and a shifting digital realm. Media literacy is defined as the ability to access, analyse, evaluate and communicate information and messages in various forms and online platforms. Digital skills are an essential component in using digital devices, communication applications, and networks to access and manage information. They are critical for job creation and social inclusion, enabling people to create and share digital content, communicate and collaborate, and at the same time, solve issues effectively by learning and participating in social activities at a larger scale. Young people are exposed to mass media daily; they watch television and movies, read books, newspapers and magazines online, listen to music and explore the internet. This broad spectrum of exposure to media outlets leads to the need for education about media literacy and digital skills. JOUR-YOU aims to develop and implement innovative methods and practices to foster inclusive activities and promote common values by enhancing the media literacy and digital skills and competences of young people. The project will build the capacity of youth NGOs to use innovative tools and practices, which encourage community engagement of young people through new media technologies. The project aims at developing youth work through the application of training materials and NFIL methods to enhance the critical thinking, media literacy, digital and leadership skills of youth and youth workers. - KA2 Project SEEDing Successful young female entrepreneurs for a green world by regenerative agriculture Ref: : ERASMUS-YOUTH-2021-CB Project 101052106 — SEEDS

"The aim of SEEDS is to increase and enhance capacities for entities located in MENA countries for vocational education and training, to increase working and work quality with Youth in a Green agriculture, following the principles of regenerative agriculture and to increase mobility for Youth workers into the Project partner countries. This leads by improvement of Youth work to increase their access to the labour market and their better self-identification in the society. Gender equality in economic activity can generate substantial macroeconomic gains. Yet, for the majority of women in MENA, significant improvement in education is not translating into more economic empowerment. The status of female labour force participation in MENA, including aspects reflecting women's economic activity such as unemployment, occupational segregation, earnings, working condition, and entrepreneurship, including critical enabling factors such as access to assets and finance are a big problem which can be outdated by increasing knowledge, building skills and showing examples. SEEDS believe that girls, young females and finally women at home and in society should benefit of their agency and freedom of choice. Partners were selected to have coverage for all Southern Mediterranean area: Egypt, Tunis, Morocco. To support activities in MENA countries, much respected European entities, public and private, will act from Romania, Spain, Austria and Hungary, to be sure of a successful implementation of proposed actions and continuity. As primary objective, SEEDS will form young people, targeting mostly on female youth with fewer opportunities as to increase their level of competencies and foster their active participation in the society. The impact will be multiplied; trained youth in turn, will teach other young people from their communities to prepare and to start GREEN small businesses and REGENERATING farms to boost their already existing ones..

- KA2 Project Agricultural Entrepreneurship for Disabled Young People Ref: : ERASMUS-YOUTH-2022-CB Project 101093780 — ARABLE

"People with disabilities are not insulated from the problems facing the country, particularly the high rate of poverty, youth, and graduate unemployment. Disabled youths are among the poorest and most marginalized of the world's youth, and often face significant challenges, including negative attitudes, discrimination, and lack of accessibility in physical/virtual educational environments. However, findings from related research show that disabled people in rural areas are economically active, able to generate income, and have the possibility of a productive path out of poverty. By enhancing the professional knowledge and business skills of disabled persons with disabilities, they are supported to implement their own businesses and to be part of the labor market under equal conditions. The 24month ARABLE project involves 10 experienced partner organizations in 3 EU Member states (Greece(2) and Croatia), 2 third counties associated with the Programme (Liechtenstein and North Macedonia) as well as 5 third countries not associated with the Programme – Southern Mediterranean / Region 3 (Tunisia, Morocco, Egypt, and Israel, Jordan) to support inclusive and sustainable future societies, by empowering youths that face disabilities, to gain entrepreneurship skills, to engage in sustainable agricultural entrepreneurship through an encompassing curriculum that suits to their needs and interests. To reach the above goal, ARABLE suggests the implementation of youth workers' learning experiences, research activities on best practices among 10 countries, and transnational organizational meetings, resulting in the development of the ARABLE transitional DataBase & e-Guide on best practices, training techniques, rates & guidelines and the Open online Learning Environment for agricultural entrepreneurship for disabled young people.
